Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Monday 18 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rain and cloud far south, dry with clear spells elsewhere.

This Evening and Tonight:
Cloud building across far south to bring some rain overnight. Turning cloudy but remaining dry in Central Belt. Clear spells and further showers across the north, showers less frequent towards dawn. A sharp frost in the east.

Tuesday:
Cloudy from Central Belt southwards with patchy rain, perhaps turning to sleet and snow at times. Plenty winter sunshine but becoming hazier later, a few scattered showers in the west.

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Rain, sleet and snow in south will affect eastern areas later on Wednesday. Brisk northerly winds bringing outbreaks of sleet or snow on Thursday. Drier, brighter on Friday but cold.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.